Man recovering after struggle

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

New information has been provided by police regarding the violent June 14 arrest of two men on Riverbank Road, near Golden State Middle School.

According to Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department :

At about 3:30 a.m., an officer was checking a suspicious vehicle on Riverbank Road when he saw Ernesto and Fermin Galvin walking down from the levee. A second patrol car arrived, and officers began questioning the two. The officers believed Ernesto Galvin to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and he refused to comply with their demand that both subjects put their hands in the air.

The original officer then reached over to pull Ernesto Galvin's hand out of his pocket, concerned that Galvin might be grasping a weapon. Galvin struck the officer in the face, and both officers then forced him to the ground. Galvin continued to struggle, and a Taser electric gun was used on him twice.

But still, Galvin continued to attack, said Farmer.

Officers used their batons to subdue him, and even as Ernesto Galvin was being loaded on to a gurney, he continued to kick and strike at officers and medical staff.

A baton strike caused Galvin a serious head injury, for which he required surgery.

His brother Fermin Galvin sustained a chin abrasion and

Teen wins $1,000

River City High School graduates partied safely through the night at the Collings Teen Center last Friday night following graduation ceremonies at Raley Field. Monte Carlo games, dancing, basketball, pool tournaments, live music and tons of food kept the grads safe and sober until dawn on Saturday morning.

The River City Parents Club Recycling Program donated more than $500 in gifts and I-pods, DVD players, movie tickets, stereos, and gift certificates were among the many prizes that went home with the teens. And at dawn on Saturday the $1,000 Pacific Gas and Electric grand prize was selected at random from a hat that included all the names of the participants who made it through the night, with RCHS graduate Tylar Peters being the lucky winner.

PG&E is the signature sponsor of River City High School's Safe and Sober Grad Night Celebration and along with the Rite Aid Corporation, has also provided funding to launch JumpStart to Work, the Collings Teen Center's ready to work program that will soon graduate its first class.

Pair arrested for selling drugs next to local school

Officials from the Yolo Nartotic Enforcement Team (YONET), a regional law enforcement team that includes City of West Sacramento police, have announced the arrests of three adults and the seizure of rock cocaine, crystal methamphetamine and cocaine.

YONET officials say they identified two Oak Park gang members, 24-year old Devon Hunt and Stephanie Edwards, 26, they say were selling rock cocaine across the street from West Sacramento's Elkhorn Elementary School. Undercover officers arranged to buy to purchases of the drug from Hunt, while the nearby school was in session. During a purchase of an ounce of the drug, they identified Edwards as the delivery person for the drug and followed her on delivery rounds in Yolo and Sacramento counties.

Agents arranged three more purchases in following months, including a quarter-pound buy. This month, they obtained search warrants for Edwards's home in Elk Grove and a "stash pad" in Sacramento, as well as at Hunt's River Gate apartment.

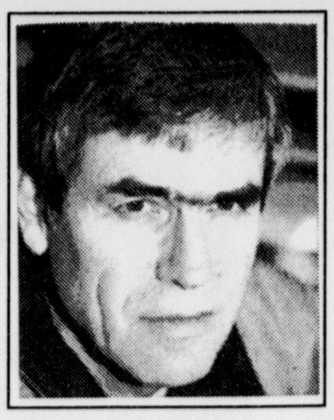

Thursday, officers from various jurisdictions served the warrants, and Edwards was followed to an area near Florin and Franklin where she was seen to make a drug transaction, YONET said. She was arrested "and found in possession of numerous baggies containing crystal methamphetamine, rock cocaine, and cocaine hydrochloride." A pound of cocaine was also found at the "stash pad" on Rush River in Sacramento.

They found $11,000 in cash at her home, as well as a loaded .45 caliber gun.

Hunt was arrestd at his home, and bail was set for $300,000. Charges included selling drugs within 1,000 feet of a school.

Like father, like son -- when it comes to large vehicles

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Note: Another Father's Day has just come and gone, my first without my father, who passed away three months ago, and I am reminded of a conversation we had a few years back, which turned into the following column:

Like most people my age, my parents were in their early 20's during World War II, and not too long after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, my father (along with tens of thousands of other patriotic Americans) enlisted in the United States Armed Forces.

"I did my Army infantry basic training in the state of Washington," recalled my father the other night as we were sitting around after Easter dinner swapping war stories, "and then they sent me down into the California desert for more training. They made me a machine gunner and our division was supposed to be going to North Africa, but then they decided we were more needed in the South Pacific, so my first ten months overseas were spent in Hawaii, where we helped train other troops, and then we were all shipped out to New Guinea."

Once in New Guinea, the mission of my father's unit was to help clean out the enemy forces in the mountains, but since the Japanese really weren't doing much damage up there, it was determined that it might be best to just leave well enough alone.

"We ended up with quite a bit of time on our hands," remembered my father as a smile began to cover his face, "and one day me and a buddy of mine were driving a couple of ammo trucks along the beach (that was apparently were they could get the most traction) when I decided to have a little fun and tried to pass him down near the waves. Well, before I knew it, a big old wave got a hold of my truck and started dragging me out to sea. I managed to save myself, but even with the help of one of those giant maintenance vehicles, they couldn't get my truck out of the water. All that ammo on it was just too heavy, and the cable they were trying to pull it out of the water with finally just snapped. Then the tide really started coming in, and it wasn't long before the darn thing just disappeared."

"You drove a fully loaded ammo truck into the sea?" I asked my father with disbelief as we both started to laugh.

"I'm afraid that's right," he reluctantly admitted. "And they said they were going to court martial me for it, too. Plus they told me that once I got out of the Army, I was going to have to repay the government for both the truck and all the ammo on it."

"They didn't really make you do that, did they?"

"No, but let me tell you, I spent quite a few years waiting for a letter from Uncle Sam telling me I owed the government a small fortune!"

As our conversation continued, I decided to share a little "military vehicle incident" of my own.

"When I got back from Vietnam," I explained to my father, "they asked me where I wanted to serve the last six months of my two-year commitment, and since I had never really seen much of the United States, I told them to send me as far away from California as they could."

"I remember you telling me that," recalled my father.

"Anyway, they sent me back to Fort Meade, Maryland, and since I was a sergeant, they had to put me in charge of something. First they gave me my own squad of soldiers -- this was back in 1970 remember -- and put us in an outfit responsible for controlling the big student demonstrations they were still having in nearby Washington, D.C. But one weekend during a huge demonstration when most of my squad more or less went over to the side of the demonstrators, they decided they better put me in charge of something else, so believe it or not, they gave me my own tank."

"You're kidding?" said my father, well-aware of my complete lack of anything even resembling mechanical expertise.

"Well, it wasn't exactly a tank," I admitted. "It was actually just an APC (armored personnel carrier) and all I was supposed to do was wash the darn thing all the time and make sure it was sparkling clean when an inspection rolled around."

"That sounds pretty boring," said my father.

"Exactly, so one night, me and this other sergeant who also had his own APC decided to play a little game of `tank chicken'." "What happened?" asked my father with genuine interest.

"Well, after a few beers, it turned out that both of us were a lot braver than we had thought, and we ended up crashing our APC's into each other. I hadn't thought we had been going all that fast, but it sure made a loud bang and one big mess. It woke up half the base and everyone came running. And you know what?"

"What?"

"The Army did the same exact thing to me that they did to you! They told me they were going to court martial me and make me pay for all the damages. But thankfully, just like you, they never got around to doing either. They did decide, however, to approve a request they had already denied that gave me an `early out' so I could go back to college. And they had me out of Fort Meade and on a plane back to California in a matter of days."

"You know what?" asked my smiling father, lowering his voice so my mother couldn't hear it.

"What?"

"From now on when we're sitting around talking about being in the Army, and especially when other people are in the room, I think we better just stick to the stories that make us sound like we were war heroes."

"Good idea," I whispered back to him.

Well, "interest only" loans are still in the headlines. Allan Greenspan talked a little about thatm, and had some reservations about this type of financing. In a nutshell, interest-only mortgages have a place, but are certainly not a longterm solution for your real estate goals. Interest-only loans allow buyers to get up to 100% financing for the purchase of a home. They allow you to tap into your equity to pay off debt, purchase things, do home repairs, etc.

Usually they're easy to get and solve a specific need for lower payments. The bigger picture is that sometimes borrowers are blinded by the lower payments and don't read the fine print. One thing is certain: the lender who loaned you the money really does want that money back sometime.

The longer you pay interest-only, and the farther you go before paying it off, the more money for the lender. Read the fine print -- there is a specific draw period, and a payback period. It's usually not longer than 20 years, and sometimes it is 10 years that the want the principal back.

The good things about interest-only loans are that qualifying for a bigger home is easier and the deductible interest on taxes are a good thing. For those who plan to live in a house for a year or two, those loans are very good -- with a fixed rate, there wouldn't be much principal reduction, so why not keep your payments as low as possible?

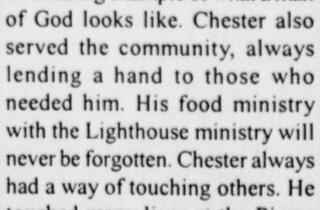

But if you plan on being in your home for five years or more, plan on refinancing out of your interest-only home as soon as you can so you can enjoy principal reduction.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

It was a weird week in sports with not a whole lot of news and not very much action. The most fun I had during the slow week was watching Formula One's version of a lockout. Can you believe seven racing teams pulled out the race at Indy on Sunday leaving only six cars in the race? This move left thousands of disappointed racing fans screaming for a refund or leaving the race early because of a dispute over faulty tires! Bad PR for Michelin Tires.

The NBA finals television ratings are the lowest ever as the series shifts back to the Alamo for game 6 and maybe game 7. Only a seventh game will save this boring low scoring series. It hasn't been much fun watching the Giants and A's on T.V. either. Both teams are losing their fans interest with bad baseball and ridiculously long losing streaks.

Or how about watching Robert Horry swish a last second three point shot on Father's Day against the Spurs in game 5. It brought back the memory of the nightmare shot he made against the Kings in game 6 of the Western Conference finals. I always thought it was a lucky shot! I guess I was wrong and quit hating!

Good News - Football season is just 30 days away!

NBA Finals

The Pistons roared back in the Motor City to take games 3 and 4 from the Alamo Boys of San Antonio to even up the NBA Championship series at two games apiece only to lose game 5 in overtime.

Coach Brown and Motown gang figured out how to stop Tim Duncan to win two out of three in the Motor City. The Pistons had the swing game under control in the last seconds of the fourth quarter only to miss their last shot, which allowed Mr. Horry to shine again in the playoffs. Now Detroit must win two in Texas to repeat as the NBA champions. If San Antonio wins one of the last two games it will be their third NBA title in five years.

Major League Baseball

The baseball season is almost at the halfway point of the season and the two local teams are struggling big time. The Giants are 9 games out of first while the A's trail the first place Angels by 10 big ones. The Bay Area sports fans are suffering again through another bad sport season after surviving a horrible 49ers and Raiders 2004 campaign. The only ray of hope for the cities by the bay is the emergence of the Golden State Warriors.

The G-Men (28-39) have lost 15 of their last 17 games and with their pitching staff things don't look any better in the future. It looks like the Phoenix Grizzlies (Triple-A Fresno) have invaded SBC Park before the usual September minor league additions. The latest addition is outfielder Todd Linden who was tearing up the Triple-A pitching. No Barry Bonds sighting yet so the Giants used an all rookie outfield with Adam Shabala, Jason Ellison and Linden patrolling fences. They still lost!

The Giants called up Jesse Foppert on Sunday to pitch in Detroit only to watch him give up 4 runs and walk six batters in 3 innings. Also their new closer, Tyler Walker, is probably one game from being sent down to Phoenix. Walker lacks the confidence to be the Giants closer, which they need so desperately. Rumor has closer Armando Benitez on the quick mend from the DL and could be rejoining the G-Men sooner that anticipated.

The Oakland A's (29-39) are playing just as poorly as there south bay rivals. The A's have already made the move to Triple A calling up a half dozen players from West Sacramento. River Cat Seth Etherton might get called back up to the parent club after pitching 7 scoreless innings on Father's Day at Raley Field. Ex-Gato first baseman Dan Johnson is still holding his own in the majors by going 3 for 4 on Sunday to raise his average to respectable .262.

Speaking of across the bay, the Giants and A's will meet again this weekend in another three game series or should I say it's the Grizzlies vs. the River Cats!

Boxing News

West Sacramento heavyweight Gilbert Martinez has decided to hang up the gloves at the golden age of 39. Martinez ended his professional career at 18 wins, 9 losses and 3 draws with 7 KO's. Martinez's claim to fame was a 2003 decision over former world champion and Olympian Tony Tubbs. Too bad Gilbert never fought Tyson he would have whipped Iron Mike last week.

On Saturday night live from Atlantic City its thunder and lighting on another Pay-Per-View extravaganza featuring Arturo Gatti vs Roger Mayweather Jr. for Gatti's WBC Super-lightweight title. Gatti is a warrior but he's going to need a couple of pints of O negative after the fight.

Should you rent if you can't sell?

If you're trying to sell, but can't get the price you want, should you consider renting your home until market conditions improve?

Consider the issue fully before putting a 'for rent' ad in the local classifieds. First, there are no assurances about when the market will get 'better.' And even if the market improves, selling a tenant-occupied home can be tricky -- depending on your lease and on local tenant protection laws. The tenants may also, reasonably, want to limit the access of Realtors and buyers to your house (which they've come to think of as their own). If your home has been rented, it may not reflect your pride of ownership when you are ready to sell.

If you do rent your home, learn local landlord/tenant laws, conduct a credit check and contact references before signing.

Notice of Public Hearing to Discuss CDBG Eligible Activities for 2005/2006, Annual Grantee Performance Reports and an Amendment to the First Time Homebuyer Assistance Program Guidelines

The West Sacramento City Council will conduct a public hearing on July 6, 2005 at 7:30 p.m. to review the City's participation in the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program. The following topics will be discussed:

1. Proposed use of grant funds for Fiscal Year 2005-2006; and
2. Annual Grantee Performance Reports for revolving loan fund activities and open CDBG grant #04-STBG-1941 for the HIRE Construction Training Program; and
3. An amendment to the First Time Homebuyer Assistance Guidelines.

The City operates the CDBG program with grants from the State of California Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) Small Cities CDBG program. The City is eligible to apply for up to $800,000 per year through the General and Economic Development components. No grant may exceed $500,000 per year. The City may also apply to the Planning and Technical Assistance Allocation for up to $35,000 per year from the General allocation and $35,000 per year for Economic Development allocation. These grants do not count towards the $800,000 funding limit.

The five major CDBG activity categories are Housing-New Construction, Housing-Rehabilitation, Community Facilities/Public Services, Public Works and Economic Development activities. Projects funded with CDBG funds must carry out at least one of three national objectives: benefit to Targeted Income Group (TIG) persons, elimination of slums and blight or meeting urgent community development needs.

Interested persons are invited to attend. The hearing will be held at the City of West Sacramento Civic Center, second floor, 1110 West Capitol Ave., West Sacramento, California 95691. In compliance with the ADA, if you need assistance to participate in this meeting, you should contact the City Clerk at (916) 617-4500. Notification 72 hours prior to the meeting will enable the City to make reasonable accommodations to assure accessibility at the meeting. The Civic Center is handicapped accessible.

If you are unable to attend the public hearing, you may direct written comments prior to the date of the hearing to: City of West Sacramento, Grants and Community Investment, 1110 West Capitol Ave., West Sacramento, CA 95691. OPINION

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: A letter last week from H.N. Smith questioned the need to create a park for dogs at the current Sam Combs Park. An editing error, however, changed the letter's final paragraph, in which the author finished tallying the city's current parks. The paragraph should have read:

"To include the balance of our city north of West Capitol Avenue, there are approximately three parks: Bryte, Elkhorn and River Walk Park. There are two playfields: the Alyce Norman/Bryte and Westfield playfields. These playfields are attached to or alongside of a school, not parks in the respect of having family picnics, etc., nor a place to take your toddlers. That gives us a grand total of eight parks and three playfields, as such. South of the Deep Water Channel I have located eight parks with nine more on the drawing boards, not to mention three trail/corridors. And no room for your dogs?"

Get involved

For those of you who missed the very preliminary preview of the traffic study at last week's city council meeting, you missed a lot, but you didn't miss much of anything that was stated as a real or firm figure, fact or stat. A few noteworthy moments included Mr. Beers pinning the presenter down to an exact hour for the Southport problem intersection studies, which were 7-8 a.m. and 4-5 p.m. during the work week. These very limited hours almost elude my sense of reasoning, as I personally waited through six red lights at Linden/Jefferson (8:15 a.m.) last Tuesday and finally bypassed the intersection in frustration to get out to work; and don't most people still get off at 5 p.m.? Have you tried to get home between 5 and 6 lately?

I'm wondering how much the preview study has cost us already and how many more studies they will have to do before they know if these three intersections are going to be lower than a "C" rating? I took it upon myself to notify them that most of us in Southport who go to work daily have our own rating of "F-" from 7-9 a.m. and 4-6 p.m., without charging the residents of the City of West Sacramento a red cent!

The intersections they noted as "potential" problem areas were Jefferson at Linden, Jefferson at Lake Washington and Jefferson on the ramp to I-80. A lesser mention was made of the nightmares at Harbor and Industrial Boulevard. An important note here, is that Jefferson and Harbor are the only two ways to exit Southport towards Sacramento, with how many people and cars now?

And another important note is that they have both been virtually one lane exit roads for well over a year. God forbid that the ammonia tanks or gas tanks blow and we need to evacuate because, with no police station and one small fire station existing in Southport, who's going to get us out? Is there any kind of real evacuation plan for us?

Two inescapable facts are emphasized by this very preliminary report: (1) Even if the existing general plan is followed (as more than just a guideline per Planning Commissioner Charles Moore's comment), we will have and already do have great issues with traffic, population and city emergency personnel (a mess, as declared by City Councilman Bill Kristoff), and (2), if Mayor Cabaldon and our very own planning and/or building departments keep condoning zoning changes to the existing general plan toward higher density populations, allowing/requiring developers to add to their allowable village housing numbers and, worse, taking away from the designated/existing rural residential, rural estate and agricultural areas, we residents who chose Southport because of the general plan are in deeper trouble than we think we are now.

Please let Mayor Cabaldon, the city council members, and the building and planning departments know how you feel before it is too late. Attend the planning commission and council meetings and hear/see for yourself what's trying to happen in your own back yard. Please get involved and do it now if you're concerned!

High school cost overruns

Apparently as a former school board member I'm to blame for rising land costs, rising construction costs, and for listening to the community.

In 1998 the community came together and supported the concept of one high school. This committee included our county supervisor, city council members and many leaders of West Sacramento; the vote was 20-2 in favor of one school. Therefore I plead guilty to listening to the community and supporting one high school. And in following with the one high school concept, I have also publicly supported and encouraged the incorporation of Yolo High School into the new campus to truly create a one high school city.

Smaller schools are not cheaper. Try building six small high schools at a cost of $20-25 million and then try to staff them and you'll discover higher construction costs and higher continual staffing costs as we have to have redundancies. Then try to move the calculus class to Southport and hear the cries of racism.

I will also personally take the blame for land costs rising in the last three years from $100,000 an acre to over $250,000 an acre. I haven't profited from it and don't know how I actually caused the rising costs. The truth is that at least $10 million in cost overruns came about because of rising land costs, nobody's fault, except perhaps the mayor's, but even then I don't know how he caused them.

Rising construction costs are also a huge problem. They have been rising at ten percent per year for several years. These costs have added at least $20 million to the high school cost. Whom do we blame? Do we blame the mayor because he balked at joining the board in designing the high school jointly with the city for their parks and recreation needs? Or do we understand that rising construction costs are nobody's fault?

I will agree that a delay of one year was caused because we needed to get certain board members, the city council, the community and the high school on board to the small learning centers concept. I was not part of that delay; I supported the concept and design of small learning centers from the beginning and waited as others came on board. As stated in a previous letter, a delay of one year is worth it if it results in a better school.

In the past 18 months I have publicly warned the school board and the public that because of higher land and construction costs that we would have to go out for another bond issue. If it is a surprise to the mayor or board members then they haven't been listening.

I'm glad the city council has upped their participation from less than $5 million to $15 million. That is a nice move although later than it should have been. We also must acknowledge that part of some council members and the mayor's difficulty with some board members was a personality conflict which all parties involved were responsible for.

The simple question is do we build the new high school the right way or do we cut corners, listen to the whiners, and shortchange the children of West Sacramento? I say build it the right way, with small learning centers on one site for all the children of West Sacramento.

Q. On the show "Law and Order: Criminal Intent," was the actor who plays Captain Deakins a professional football player at one time? My husband says no, but I could swear I read that he was with the Miami Dolphins. Also, what other TV shows has he done, and why does he sometimes wear an eye patch on the show? — Mary Anne N.

A. Give this one to your husband. Jamey Sheridan has spent his entire professional life as an actor, much of it on the stage where he and his wife, Colette Kilroy, often perform in Shakespearean plays. Among his TV credits, he was a chilling villain in the miniseries "The Stand," and good guy Ozzie Nelson in the TV flick "Ricky Nelson: Teen Idol." He also starred in the series "Shannon's Way," and was Dr. John Sutton in "Chicago Hope."

And here's a bit of TV trivia about Sheridan: He was the original male lead, Bryce, in the unaired pilot of Kirstie Alley's "Veronica's Closet," and although his performance impressed everyone, he was, for some reason, replaced with another actor.

Sheridan has Bell's palsy and must sometimes wear an eye patch. When he does so on the show, the reason is written into the episode.

world in 1943, a year after "Yankee Doodle Dandy" was released. However, she did co-star opposite Joel Grey as Cagney in the very well received 1972 television film, "George M.," which also starred Bernadette Peters, Jack Cassidy and Red Buttons.

Q. Please, please, please, tell me whose voice is on the (AOL) greeting? Some of us believe it's a computerized voice, but it sounds so real. — Dianna B.

A. Elwood Edwards was in radio and TV in his hometown of Vienna, Va., when his wife, Karen, who worked for a computer services company named Quantum, learned that Steve Case, the marketing director of its online service, wanted to incorporate a human voice in the user interface. She suggested her husband, who got the job. Quantum later changed its name to AOL, and Edwards' voice stayed with it.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK

by Philomena Corradeno

WALNUTS ARE AT THE HEAD OF THEIR CLASS

Even before I knew anything about their nutritional assets, I was nuts about nuts. We almost always had them around when we were kids. Mom baked a couple of times a week, and she used them a lot. It was not uncommon to end a company meal with coffee, dessert and nuts — with nutcrackers, of course, which slowed down the enjoyment.

Today we're highlighting walnuts, because various studies have found they have the highest concentration of Omega-3 fatty acids, far out-ranking all other tree nuts and peanuts. Rich in protein, vitamins, minerals and antioxidants, walnuts help lower cholesterol and reduce the risk of life-threatening diseases.

In "SuperFoods Rx: Fourteen Foods that Will Change Your Life" (HarperCollins Publishers Inc., 2004), author Dr. Steven Pratt lists walnuts. Says Dr. Pratt, "a daily handful of walnuts or a bowl of blueberries can improve your well-being and longevity." Dr. Pratt lectures nationally and internationally and is regarded by the medical community and general public as "the pre-eminent voice for cutting-edge nutrition and health."

And, in "12 Best Foods Cookbook" (Rodale Inc., 2005), author Dana Jacobi includes walnuts. Besides her extensive nutritional information, there are more than 200 recipes.

Nutrition aside, walnuts are crisp, crunchy and taste, well, wonderful. There are other tasty words, but I say, "just plain good." And they are versatile and enhance many dishes. Toss them into a salad, breakfast cereal, soups, puddings and ice cream, coat meats and fish before cooking, toast them with herbs or spices or sweet glazes.

Try this recipe, and serve it the next time you entertain. The walnut coating gives olives unique texture and flavor.

WALNUT-COATED CRISP OLIVES

- *1 1/2 cups California walnuts, toasted
- 1 1/2 cups bread crumbs, unseasoned
- 3 large eggs
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 lb. (approx. 72) pimento-stuffed green olives
- 1 1/2 quarts canola oil, for deep frying

1) Spread toasted walnuts on baking sheet and place in warm place (about 110 F) for several hours or overnight. A gas oven with just the pilot light is ideal. Cool nuts to room temperature before next step.

2) Combine nuts and crumbs in food processor and process until nuts are finely ground, yet mixture is light and dry. Spread in shallow pan and set aside.

3) In shallow bowl beat eggs and water together; set aside. Spread flour on shallow plate or pan; set aside. Drain olives of any liquid. Dip olives, a few at a time, in egg, roll in flour, dip again in egg. Let excess egg drip off olives, then roll in walnut mixture. As olives are coated, transfer to parchment-lined baking sheet. Continue until all olives are coated with walnut mixture. Refrigerate coated olives for at least 2 hours before frying.

4) Heat canola oil to 360 F. Lower 12 olives at a time into oil and fry until coating is golden, about 45 seconds. Drain briefly on paper towels, serve warm.

Serves 6 (12 per person)

*To toast walnuts, place them on a baking sheet (not a cookie sheet) in a 375 F oven for 8 to 10 minutes, stirring once or twice until just lightly browned. Store toasted nuts, tightly covered, in refrigerator and use within three weeks.

CRITIC'S CORNER

By D.N.A Smith

"Madagascar"

Running time: 86 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

"Madagascar" is the latest CGI'd animated film from Dreamworks. Thankfully, it's not as bad as that awful shark movie it released last year. In fact, "Madagascar" comes pretty close to matching the entertainment standards set by Pixar, the studio that gave us "The Incredibles" and "Toy Story."

The film stars Chris Rock as Marty the Zebra, one of the menagerie at New York's Central Park Zoo. His buddies are Alex the Lion (Ben Stiller), Melman the Giraffe (David Schwimmer) and Gloria the Hippo (Jada Pinkett Smith). The animals have lived in princely, pampered comfort at the zoo for their entire lives.

On Marty's 10th birthday, some enterprising penguins (voiced by the director and members of the production team) attempt an escape to someplace called "The Wild." Marty becomes obsessed with the idea of living in the wild and makes his escape. Of course, Marty's idea of The Wild is ... Connecticut, and he thinks all he has to do is go to Grand Central Station and hop on a train.

Alex and the rest of Marty's pals chase after him. Of course, they're all captured. An animal-rights group convinces everyone that this is the animals' way of saying they don't want to live in captivity, so Marty, Alex, Melman and Gloria are crated-up and put on a slow boat to Kenya. Little do the humans realize that the crack commando team of penguins has infiltrated the ship and changed its course to Antarctica. On the way, our crated friends are accidentally knocked overboard and wind up on the sandy shores of Madagascar, where they are greeted by a gajillion zonked-out, party-animal lemurs led by flamboyant King Julien (Sacha Baron Cohen).

Slowly, Alex the Lion begins to hear The Call of the Wild and becomes more and more like a real lion, wanting to eat not only the lemurs, but tempted to make a buffet of his friends as well.

"Madagascar" is a really funny movie, not only for kids, but for grownups too. I'm definitely buying the DVD when it comes out. The curious thing about the film, though, is that most of the laughs are inspired by the supporting cast: King Julien, the penguins and other peripheral characters. This isn't a criticism, just an observation.

The film is also short enough to keep younger viewers' attention while still having enough time to instill a very important moral: Don't eat your friends. Really.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Deborah Tannen, linguist and author of the best-selling book "You Just Don't Understand: Women and Men in Conversation," observed, "Saying that men talk about baseball in order to avoid talking about their feelings is the same as saying that women talk about their feelings in order to avoid talking about baseball."

• Everyone is aware of — and many are annoyed by — the ubiquitous "elevator music," but not many people are aware of its origins. In early elevators the riders could hear the noises of the mechanics, which made many of them nervous. To ease their tension, soothing music was piped in to cover up the ominous sounds.

• In the early 1700s, Edinburgh, Scotland, was a city of contrasts. Alcoholism was rampant — it was reported that even children drank whiskey every day. Despite all the drinking, though, the religious climate of the city was very strict

Hypocrite in a Pouffy White Dress
By Susan Jane Gilman
(Warner Books, $12.95)
Reviewed by Cindy Elavsky

Susan Jane Gilman's "Hypocrite in a Pouffy White Dress" is the kind of book you talk about. Her memoir about growing up in the '70s as a tutu-wearing, non-practicing Jew on the semi-rough streets of the Upper West Side of New York City will make the reader smile, gasp and often laugh out loud.

Gilman's tales begin when she is about 4 years old. She has decided that when she grows up she wants to be a princess, an actress, a ballerina and a stewardess. She's not quite sure what a stewardess does, but the word ends with "-ess," so she knows it has to be a good job.

Gilman takes her readers through grade school, high school and college, to her first real job, through her marriage and their few years working abroad in Switzerland. Each chapter is devoted to a time frame in Gilman's life that played a key role in her development as the strong, defiant person she has become.

As a child, she was keenly aware that her hippie parents were a little different than most kids' (i.e., they have Susie and her brother study with the Maharishi). Her parents send her to a Presbyterian school, where she discovers that the girls who go there are even meaner than the riff-raff she meets on the city streets.

As a teenager, with her hormones raging, she discovers boys, rock stars and develops lifelong friendships. College brings her first heartache, and her first job brings her face-to-face with the heartache of another person's atrocities.

Susan Gilman's tales are a godsend to those of us who ever felt weird, goofy or too darn smart for our own good. We can rest easy knowing that there are many more of us out there, and Gilman is only too happy to tell us about them.

Police have a warrant to arrest Ernesto Galvin when he is released from the hospital, said Farmer. He is charged with assault on a police officer and use of violence against an officer performing his duties.

Ernesto Galvin, the more seriously injured of the pair, "is doing fine and should be released from the hospital soon," reported Farmer yesterday. "We have a warrant for him and we understand from his attorney that when he is released, he will surrender himself."

THE YOLO INDEPENDENT — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1920.

REED'S ALLEY IS ABOUT TO BE CLEANED UP FINALLY

Although notices were served on all tenants in Reed's Alley to vacate last April no move was made in that direction till a few days ago, when several of the house boats comprising the alley were sold by Mr. Reed.

The land on which the house boats are located is still the property of Mr. Reed for which he collects a monthly rental. One of the shacks was so badly dilapidated that it was torn down by Frank West and used for fire wood.

It is understood that the purchasers of the shacks have been given until after the winter to vacate the grounds.

The China shack, occupied by Lee Lee, on Second street, is for sale also.

Of late Reed's Alley has not been the nuisance it formerly was. Dope fiends no longer make it their headquarters and prostitutes and others of similar characters are not permitted therein.

Since Bill Campbell and Frank West adopted as their own the conduct of the place it has been materially improved but nevertheless property owners in the neighborhood would far rather see some respectable buildings erected thereon.

During heavy rains great pools of water block the sidewalks on Second street in front of this property that is a great detriment to all the people.

It is understood that Reed got $40 apiece for these shacks.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO FORM NEW IMPROVEMENT CLUB

Owing to the fact that some ladies of the old Washington Improvement Club objected to "Pernicious Publicity" and that no meetings have been held lately, the Independent understands that a movement is being made to form a new and active organization that will work for the benefit of the town.

This movement is calculated to draw the support of all forward looking property owners who want to see the town go ahead. This is very necessary because for some reason or another the old club had not the unstinted support of all the people.

Mrs. E. A. Palm, President of the old club, said to the Independent yesterday:

"I don't know of any objectionable publicity the Improvement Club had, but on the contrary I believe publicity to be the life of such an organization.

"I don't know of any member of the club objecting to the publicity the Independent gave, or any other paper, either."

It is understood that the proposed new club has for its object the building of public wharves along the river between the two bridges and that interested property owners are backing this scheme with their support in a financial way.

The building of a public wharf at this side of the river would prevent the construction of any more dams at this side to divert the current of the river to the Sacramento side.

Already the Sacramento bank of the river is over crowded, while at this side there is nothing in the shape of a wharf that could be used as a public utility.

It is amply evident that a public wharf at this side of the river would be an inducement to shippers to move over here because dravage to the business portion of Sacramento is almost as short as it is from the crowded Sacramento wharves.

ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE LEWIS NOW ACTIVELY CAMPAIGNING

Barely winning the Republican nomination as representative from Yolo, Yuba and Sutter counties, Ed Lewis of Marysville is now campaigning like an old-timer to be returned to the position.

It appears that Lewis was under the impression he had an easy thing in his opponent, Rev. C. C. Black of Yolo.

To his dismay he found that Black easily beat him for the Democratic nomination at the primary election and that he (Lewis) only won the Republican nomination by a margin of 40 votes.

Rev. C. C. Black has been moved by the Methodist Episcopal Church from Yolo to Woodland, where he has a still better opportunity to help his campaign.

Lewis represented the district two years ago and at no time was his vote found wrong.

This paper has no objection whatever to Mr. Black but it objects to a good deal of the support that stands behind him.

It is greatly to be feared that Mr. Black would not be at liberty to do his own wishes if elected to the Assembly for he now has the support of such meddlers as the Mail of Woodland, the Home Alliance, Jotter, of infamous notoriety, and some other interfering ladies and gentlemen.

It seems contrary to ethics to place a preacher in the position of lawmaker, for he would frequently find himself in ungodly company and mixed with the most detrimental elements of politics.

It is the ardent wish of all reformers that Black be returned, and it is the ardent wish of all others that Lewis be returned.

One thing is certain that Lewis must hustle and get his friends hustling if he wants to win the position of Assemblyman from Black.

NO CAUSE FOUND FOR SUICIDE OF CLARKSBURG RESIDENT

Woodland, Oct. 11.—Although every effort was made by Coroner Ross C. Wilson at an inquest held here this morning to establish a motive for the suicide of Albert McCuistion, field superintendent of the Holland Land Company, at Clarksburg Saturday, no evidence gave any clue as to what might have been the cause. There was a note in the deceased's pockets exonerating all persons, saying: "This is nobody's fault but my own. Give my watch to my brother."

The .32 revolver with which the deceased shot himself in the head was found. His domestic life was happy and he was financially well fixed. It was discovered that he was sensitive about burns about the face disfiguring his flesh. His mind was normal and he had no troublesome alliance, according to his life companion, Otto McFarlane. A wife and brother survive.
